THE PENNSYLVANIA ACADEMY OF THE FINE ARTS

1921

The Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts has opened a school of landscape painting and sculpture at Chester Springs, Chester County, Pa.

The object of the Academy in establishing this school is to afford fine art instruction in the open air, with all the beautiful surroundings of nature herself, rather than within the walls of classrooms, and to afford an opportunity for the study of art in the Summer to school teachers and to others who can not now spare the time to study in the Winter.

Chester Springs is about 300 feet above mean ocean tide level and the scenery is typical Pennsylvania farm land, enriched by the beauties of Pickering Creek with its meadows and valleys. It was a favorite watering place in Colonial days and in the early part of the nineteenth century.

"House of Dependable Service"

1537 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

¶ As a temporary home for the Art Student Philadelphia has unique advantages. Known as the "City of Homes," it affords good living at a lower cost than is possible in any other large city in the East.

¶ In historical interest it is rich, and its suburbs, easy of access, offer unusual chance for out-of-door work. Opportunities for general culture are varied and the Academy is fortunately able to secure special rates for its students to many of the lectures and concerts given each season.

¶ The Academy itself is centrally located and within short walking distance from it are good boarding-places. The two principal railroad stations are each within five minutes' walk.

¶ Recognizing that a comfortable living place is an aid to serious study the management invites correspondence with students from a distance and offers freely its information and its aid.

CHARTERED 1836

THE business man, who is primarily a manufacturer, hires a sales manager, i. e., a "selling specialist" to handle the sales end of his business, and an "accounting specialist" to keep his books in order. Is it not equally advantageous for the business or professional man to employ specialists for the management of his personal financial affairs?

By means of a Living or Voluntary Trust, the man or woman who delegates the care of an estate to the Trust Department of this Company benefits by the collective judgment and constant attention of a staff trained in financial affairs. The Trust may be made revocable or irrevocable.

A consultation will show many ways in which a Living Trust may be utilized. The fee is moderate.
